TEDx vuelve a Vitoria-Gasteiz con una jornada sobre emprendizaje

Los ponentes contarán sus peripecias en la creación de empresas.

Como si de un programa de telerrealidad se tratara, God-i retransmite en riguroso directo todo lo que ocurre alrededor del usuario, quien se convierte en el protagonista de su propio reality.

Por Verónica Molleio · 4 Abril 2018

Si hay un sistema que ha revolucionado la difusión y la reproducción de archivos de audio o vídeo, es el streaming. Un término de sobra conocido por todos, pero cuya definición resulta a veces demasiado complicada. Dejando de lado los tecnicismos, el streaming es una tecnología que nos permite visualizar contenidos multimedia sin necesidad de descargarlos previamente en nuestro dispositivo. La retransmisión se realiza directamente desde internet, a medida que se almacena en el equipo y, en ocasiones, en riguroso directo. Un instrumento de suma eficacia para conseguir mayor visibilidad y establecer un vínculo especial con la audiencia.

Gracias a plataformas mundialmente reconocidas como Youtube, Netflix, Periscope, Spotify o Snapchat, son muchas las marcas que ya recurren a esta técnica de increíble potencial. Un grupo al que ahora se suma God-i, el ojo virtual capaz de convertir tu vida en un programa de telerrealidad.
